FORMULAS TO KNOW

These are everyday formulas that you may use on-site. Screenshot these to save time looking through the colossus regulation book.

$$\text{Voltage Drop} = \frac{(\text{mV/A/m}) \times I_p \times L}{1000}$$

Voltage Drop
Equation

$$V = I_{(A)} \times R_{(\Omega)}$$

Ohm's Law

$$P = I_{(A)} \times V$$

TOP 3 TIPS

1. Remember the spring washer!

The spring washer is designed to withstand excessive vibration, therefore prevents nuts and bolts coming loose.

Bolt/Screw > Spring Washer > Washer

2. 6mm Tap Fixing

A 6mm tap can be beneficial for roofing bolts if you work a lot with metal containment, and unable to get nut on other side while still achieving solid fixing, this is for you.

3. Stop damaging your Glands!

Spanners or flat ended grips prevents damage to your SWA glands and leaves a cleaner finish

ASK ME ANYTHING?

Q: Should I start working for myself?

A: It's difficult to give you a straight answer, things you initially need to consider to make this decision...

- Do you have a business plan?
- Are your personal outgoings high (are you reliant on getting paid exactly every month)?
- Are you willing to invest more hours than the typical 9-5?

This is no small decision to make so below is a direct link to a bunch of free resources that helped me get started and will hopefully help you as well!
